

REMARKS

This Supplemental Amendment is further to the Amendment dated September 21, 2004. Claims 18 to 30 are pending in the application, with Claims 29 to 30 having been added. Claims 23 to 28 having been amended.

Support for newly-added Claims 29 and 30 can be found in the specification, particularly at Figures 7 and 8, together with the description thereof at page 18, line 21 to page 21, line 20, and page 21, lines 21 to 27.

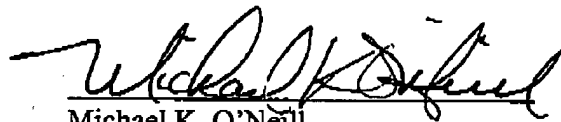

Newly-added independent Claim 29 is directed to a wireless communication apparatus including wireless communication means comprising a plurality of amplifying means for transmission. The wireless communication apparatus also includes a plurality of power supply means for supplying a power to the wireless communication means, and first switching means for switching at least one of the plurality of power supply means in accordance with a state of the wireless communication means. In addition, the wireless communication apparatus includes second switching means for switching the plurality of amplifying means in accordance with the state of the wireless communication means, and third switching means for disconnecting the power supplied to one of the plurality of amplifying means in accordance with the state of the wireless communication means.

Thus, among its many features, the invention of Claim 29 provides for (i) switching at least one of the plurality of power supply means in accordance with a state of the wireless communication means, (ii) switching the plurality of amplifying means in accordance with the state of the wireless communication means, and (iii) disconnecting the power supplied to one of the plurality of amplifying means in accordance with the state of the wireless communication means.

Entry hereof and passage to allowance are respectfully requested.
